DUFF TELLS OF VALUE OF FARMS IN THE STATE

Pennsylvania is a Great Farming State As Well As A Great Industrial State

JUST MAKE A PROFIT

Just Find Ways of Developing Farm Production, He Says

In a state-wide radio broadcast at night Attorney General James Duff, Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, said: "You know the old saying that 'it ain't what you eat but how you eat it.' Possibly the wind that has blown across our state has not been entirely ill. Because it has awakened our cities to the fact that they are not self-sufficient, that they cannot get along without the aid of rural Pennsylvania and rural America. Certainly it is now clear that the interests of both farm people and city people will be served best when they come to understand each other's problems, and when each works for the benefit of the other."

Most people think of Pennsylvania as a great industrial state. And so it is. But it is also a great farming state. Pennsylvania has within its boundaries not only some of the most productive farms but also some of the best farmers in the whole world.

Like most other states in the so-called industrial east, the trend of population in Pennsylvania has been away from the country and toward the cities. Today in Pennsylvania we have fifty thousand less farms than we had in 1900 and four million less acres under cultivation.

N. Y. SUBWAY FARES

The average Pennsylvanian will feel that it makes very little difference to him whether the fare on New York City's subways and certain other forms of transportation is 5 cents or 8 cents.

In the financial sense, this of course is true. But the argument is of great interest and importance nevertheless, not only to Pennsylvanians but to all other American citizens, because it so clearly shows the fallacies of much of the New Deal's price and labor policies.

The debate over the fares brings to light the weaknesses in such New Deal matters as subsidies, taxes, "ability to pay," the true source of wholesale pay increases, and the effects of partiality by the government to special labor groups.

The New York fares are one of the most easily understood examples of subsidies.

Some years ago the metropolis decided that a 5-cent fare was so desirable that the taxpayers in general might properly be called upon to make up whatever deficits the city-owned transportation incurred selling rides at less than true cost.

Like all subsidy programs, this one started on a small scale—a minor item in the city's total budget. But like all such programs, it grew.

Now it has developed into a huge burden, and one which greatly embarrasses Democratic Mayor O'Dwyer of New York. The Mayor, faced by increased costs in many other fields, and with spending programs too tempting for him to reject, had to boost taxes to a level which would stagger any large-city Pennsylvanians, who are unhappy paying far less.

Actually, the new tax burdens in New York may have the unfortunate effect of driving business houses to the wall, or forcing them to leave the city. If that happens, real estate values might slump and result in less, instead of more, tax receipts.

STATE COMPLETING ROAD AND BRIDGE WORK

Heaviest Oiling Program in History of Department About Completed

TO REPAIR BRIDGES

The forces of the State Highway Department are now completing operations on one of the heaviest oiling programs in the history of the department.

During the past several years, work of this nature had to be held to a minimum, due to wartime restrictions covering tank-car shipments of materials and Federal control of the use of certain materials for other than work essential to the war effort.

The labor shortage and the scarcity of equipment and repair parts also handicapped work of this nature during the last five years, as non-essential materials could not be produced in sufficient quantities for all needed work.

Now that some of the restrictions have been lifted, the Department was able to apply a total of approximately 569,000 gallons of road oil to 132 miles of macadam highways in Bucks County during the past season. This operation required the delivery of about 28,450 tons of crushed stone to the various projects, and operations have been under way since the middle of May.

There were numerous other sections of highway which were considered for treatment, but the materials were not available, due to the scarcity of equipment and repair parts, as well as labor.

The Department will now perform ordinary Fall maintenance work during the coming few months while its equipment is being placed in readiness for winter work, such as snow removal and churning.

However, the scarcity of equipment repair parts and new equipment is expected to make their operations more difficult than usual, as they have not been able to secure deliveries of new trucks and snowplows as rapidly as desired. They will also be faced with a scarcity of new snow fence again this winter, as the restrictions covering the use of wire and lumber is once more present.

FRAGRANCE VERSUS TASTE

Housewives who have become desperate in their search for meat will be heartened by a bulletin from one of the agencies of the Department of Agriculture. Boiled down, this bulletin offers a technique for dealing with meat-hungry husbands and other members of the family circle. All the housewife needs do is appeal to the nose instead of the mouth.

Once the sense of smell has been satisfied, the sense of taste seems to go completely haywire and welcomes any food that may be available when dinner is served.

This bulletin belittles the idea that people need meat and points to a large group of vegetarians where flesh is never tasted from one year to another. But federal experts recognize that some men have become accustomed to steak, pork and lamb and become somewhat critical when they sit down to a meal in which vegetables predominate. Here the experts offer the theory that what whets the appetite for meat is its delectable odor and not its taste.

All the housewife need do is fry "a curl of bacon." That will permeate the premises with bacon fragrance, whereupon the hungry husband will eat mush, egg plant, cauliflower and potatoes, his mind at ease and his taste buds fooled by the operation of his olfactory nerves.

This is a neat trick, if the housewife can perform it. The timely advice solves a problem that has become more and more perplexing in the average home. But there is one flaw in the advice, one step that the experts forgot to explain. Where is anybody to find a curl of bacon?

Washington says it will lay great stress on the housing program. One solution would be to have various relays of pickets occupy the same houses at different hours of the day.

Fighting ceases periodically in the Chinese civil war, but whether to enable the combatants to get their breath or the Communists to get fresh supplies from Russia is not clear.

Scientists, who do not believe in letting bad enough alone, are going to the stratosphere in search of mesons, a ray much more powerful than the atom bomb.

The surest way to balance the federal budget is to curtail spending, a remark that will be regarded as the rankest heresy in Washington.

N. Y. SUBWAY FARES

A major item in the mayor's budget was the cost of subsidizing the 5-cent fare, which he originally estimated at more than $50,000,000 a year.

Meanwhile, however, a CIO union, "horning in" on a field where the AFL thought it was the real bargaining agency, threatened to call a strike unless the transit workers were given a $2 a day wage increase, and unless the CIO was made the sole bargaining agent.

This has an interesting angle in connection with the "ability to pay" theory so often emphasized by the President and some labor unions as the true yardstick of wages. The transit company obviously had no "ability to pay" higher wages—it was losing money on the present ones.

But the "ability to pay" tune is saved always for concerns which are showing profits, or are thought to be. No one used the theory to try to prove that transit wages were too high.

Instead, the Mayor worked out an informal agreement by which the wage-boost was to be made as soon as money could be found to pay for it. The CIO and AFL unions were to represent the workers jointly.

The wage increases will bring the transit deficit to the staggering total of $75,000,000 a year, which taxes must carry unless it is put into the fares. It would equal 3 cents more in these fares.

It is worth pointing out exactly what this wage increase means. Because the union is entrenched, and because it has in public office those who either fear it or are subservient to it, they are going to get the extra $2 a day. They get the money regardless; and it will be paid either by the taxpayers or by the riding public.

The rides given in return for the fare will not be worth any more. The employees will not give more of them in return for the extra wages. And no one yet has asked whether the taxpayers or the riders are in better position than they used to be to afford the higher fares.

No matter how much sentimental emphasis one may put on the fact that of course all the employees and their families will be pleased to receive more money, it ought to be obvious that something is wrong with this whole pattern in the field of economics.

This isn't "collective bargaining" in any sense; on the contrary, it is "pay up or else." And those with whom the union is making the bargain are not those who will have to pay the higher costs; the bargain is with the O'Dwyer administration, which is now trying to decide whether to pass the burden over to the taxpayers or the travelling public.

Meanwhile, Mayor O'Dwyer seems to have been neatly double-crossed by the board to which he turned the matter over for report. This is his Board of Estimate. In its report, it punched a hole in his suggestion that both CIO and AFL be recognized, and said a single bargaining agent is "preferred." This means CIO.

This is only another of many cases in which the CIO, because of its PAC money and controlled votes, has been able to elbow its way into the confidence of Democratic office-holders, and get an obviously unfair advantage over both the AFL and the public in general.

This is the New Deal touch. If the "single bargaining agent" proposition is adopted, there is just one way, and only one way on the record of Federal labor policy for the past fourteen years, by which the question of which union is to represent the transit workers is going to be settled.

That is by a terrific transit strike and tie-up, similar to the power deadlock in Pittsburgh, in which the New York citizens will take again the same sort of a beating they have had on so many recent occasions.

How much more of this sort of thing is the American public going to take?

How about you?
HAVE YOU HAD ENOUGH?

State Completing Road and Bridge Work

venting the purchase of this material.

The State Highway Department has started an extensive bridge program for the repair of concrete and stone masonry bridges mostly in Montgomery and Bucks counties.

Since early 1942 the Highway Department has been unable to carry on their usual bridge maintenance due to their inability to secure materials and the extreme labor shortage during the war years.

Many of the concrete highway bridges have been seriously effected by the elements under the extreme ranges of temperatures normal to our climate. In addition there are numerous old stone arch bridges built as early as 1790 that are still in service. These old stone arches are now generally in need of preservation and strengthening to carry the heavy loads of present day traffic.

The problem facing the Department was how to strengthen these old structures and at the same time preserve the beauty of the stone work and their rustic appearance.

After a thorough study of the problem the pressure grout method has been adopted and the program instituted both by contract and by maintenance forces. This type of repair requires special training and experience and the Department has established a training course to prepare efficient personnel for this work.

The training of one such unit has been completed and others will be ready to start next spring.

Bridges included in this program are the Schuylkill River Bridge on Route 29 in Phoenixville, built in 1916, five bridges in the vicinity of Green Lane, in Montgomery County; two large bridges over the Ne-shaminy Creek near Langhorne, built in 1921, two multiple stone arch bridges on Route 611 near Pipersville, in Bucks County, and many others.

Buff Tells of Value of Farms In The State

making farm resources of our commonwealth more productive and more profitable.

Our cities will not flourish very long if they become surrounded by agriculture that is not making a profit. We must find ways of developing farm production and marketing so that the strength of our agriculture will increase through serving our urban centers more abundantly and efficiently.

Pennsylvania is fortunate in having a sound experimental station, a stable and substantial agricultural college and an intelligently directed State Department of Agriculture. Through strong support of these institutions and agencies I am convinced that the State can steadily increase our agricultural productivity.

Now as always, however, the character, courage, ability and resourcefulness of our farm boys and girls. They are constantly supplying new blood, determination, ambition, brains and energy to our city and industrial life. They steadily revitalize our agriculture and we must make it possible for more and more of them to find a full and satisfactory life on our farms.

But we need more and better tools to do the work that must be done for Pennsylvania farmers. We have been doing excellent farm research work in both the state and nation for a long time. We have had sound results in grain breeding, plant development, conservation, market research, in fighting plant and animal diseases and in other fields.

Yet what has been done is no more than a promise of what can be done. The great industrial concerns that have poured their money into research have had the most outstanding successes. They have bettered themselves, bettered their customers, bettered the public and strengthened the nation. They have made tremendous advances in electronics, plastics, chemistry and in all the uses and application of power.

The success of industrial research joins the way for stepping up our farm research and of obtaining increased farm productivity. We need greatly increased appropriations by the Commonwealth to provide more experimental fields, more laboratories, more plant breeders, more experts in grasses, in fruits, in cereals and in both human and animal nutrition. The job of the Commonwealth is to help the farmers to help themselves.

We must prepare to fight for the markets we now have as well as to expand our markets both inside and outside the state. Our farmers are entering a day of the hardest competition they have ever known. New varieties, new foods, better products and products coming from long distances are going to fight for our markets. All this will not be just seasonal competition. It will be steady, unrelenting, year around pressure.

Yet within this state are abundant markets and these mean abundant opportunities. We can and must do more about these opportunities. We must find out more about how our products are sold, study and advise our farmers how the best known practices can be more widely applied, adapt the most advanced marketing methods of other areas and apply them here with advantage to both grower and consumer.

Farm marketing cooperatives are of special benefit to the smaller farms. The state government should at all times, continue to aid and protect organizations created by farmers for the cooperative marketing of farm produce and for the purchase of farm supplies.

Transportation is a vital part of farm marketing. It affects freshness and quality, which in turn affect values and returns to the farmer. Our rural highway system, now the most extensive in the nation, urgently needs further extension and improvement. These rural highway improvements must be made through regular, biennial allocations of funds in substantial amounts on a regular and definite basis, the same as the roads on the primary and secondary systems of the Commonwealth, and not left to hit or miss systems or allowances. Such a plan will eliminate log rolling and discrimination and will guarantee the regular and systematic development of farm-to-market roads. This plan is sound. Farmers tell me they believe in it because it makes no wild promises that cannot be met.

At great advantage to our farmers, Pennsylvania can be far more self-sufficient in agriculture. We can do better than grow only one-sixth of the meat we consume. We can study what can be done with some of our great areas of marginal and sub-marginal land. There are big acreages in this state that once barely paid their taxes. Today, because of our new knowledge of grasses and fertilization, cattle graze over them in lush and abundant pastures. A few years ago they would have gone hungry on these same fields.

We have an abundance of marginal and sub-marginal land. Actually, land is marginal only when men have not yet found a way to make it pay. There is land once called marginal up in Potter County where today highly profitable crops of clover seed and potatoes are grown. There is other land, left unplowed for years, where today fine crops of vegetables are produced.

There are other proofs that scientific knowledge can make worn lands fruitful and good lands even more profitable. I propose that the Commonwealth provide funds to study intensively these opportunities and possibilities and make the results of those studies immediately available to the farmers of the State.

The state does not want to run the farmer's business, and it could not if it did. The federal government has proven that in its endeavor to regulate the meat industry. But the state can help the farmer in making his business bigger, better and more profitable. It does not want to regulate him, it will not ask him to work in the fields all day and keep books all night for the government.

This year the farmer produced another gigantic crop. Farming is one of the great industries that has increased production in this year of indecision, false starts, big talk and poor performance. In spite of government-created shortages, regulations, strikes and turmoil the farmer kept faith. The state must keep faith with him.

The Commonwealth should aid in facilitating the extension of rural electrification, telephone and other public services; aid in the provision for rural recreational centers, assure equality of basic educational opportunities between city and country; and provide for diagnostic health centers in rural areas as recommended by the Pennsylvania

Medical Society.

One of my ambitions, if elected the next chief executive of the Commonwealth, will be to work in the closest sympathy, harmony and cooperation with the splendid men who are farm leaders in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Edward G. Yeomans

Bristol Presbyterian Church

We beseech Thee, O God, to let Thy blessing rest upon this great nation of ours. We thank Thee for the rich spiritual and national heritage which is ours. Awaken within us, as a people, a sense of our need of Thee. Forgive those sins which do so easily beset us; our wanton waste of soil and food; our love of riches and power; our neglect of Thee and Thine eternal truth. Bring us into close fellowship with Thee. For those wrong things done and the right things left undone, forgive us, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LANGHORNE PLAYS LOWER MORELAND AT PLAYWICKY

Game Will Be Played Under The Lights Tomorrow Night

LANGHORNE IS CHOICE

Lukens May Not Be Able
To Start in the Backfield

Langhorne High will play its second home game under the lights tomorrow night on Playwicky field, meeting the Lower Moreland High School. Opening kickoff will take place at 8:15 o'clock.

Several weeks ago, Coach DeRisi inaugurated night football for high schools, meeting Fallington High. The game proved a success and so DeRisi has decided to play this game under the arc lights and also the game next Friday night with Newtown High.

The Langhorne team is picked to beat Lower Moreland, although the latter has one of the best teams in years. Recently it scored a 12-6 victory over Fallington. The Redskins are also enjoying a successful season with two wins, one defeat, and a tie. The defeat was at the hands of the Riverside team, 7-6, and lately Riverside trounced Morrisville, 40-6.

Coach DeRisi is uncertain as to whether he will start Dick Lukens in the backfield. Lukens was injured in the tilt with Trenton last week and is still walking with a limp. His place will most likely be filled by Armand Fizzano, making the Langhorne backfield. Fizzano, "Doc" Righter, Semarion Brown, and "Inky" Schneider.

Bucks County school coaches are loud in their praise of "Inky" Schneider who has been the backbone of the Redskins. It isn't only his ball-carrying that is standing out but Schneider is equally as good on the defense and can nip passes like a bullet.

The Langhorne team has a fine line in W. Fizzano, Tucker, Kaleda, Griffin, Cameron, Salvatore, and Baumeister. Crawl and Farnsdale are the outstanding players of the Lower Moreland team and are apt to cause Langhorne some trouble.

GOOD CLIMATE

always has good weather, and the meteorological service of Panamir do Brasil is ready to prove it with 20 years of statistics compiled from coastal and interior observations. Brazilians cannot remember a cyclone, a hurricane or an earthquake. Any of the three would constitute a major tragedy, ravaging the coastal cities of skyscrapers built with out steel and without storm shelters.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

GLOVES AND LADIES

GO TOGETHER, and this Autumn we are seeing better hand-coverings than we have known since before the war. Don't be a one-pair woman. Gloves should be meticulous, immaculate. The Snellenburg Glove Dept. has been noted for years. Do see the newest Snellenburg showing, both for yourself and for gifting. A well-fitting fabric glove decorated with leather appliques is priced at $1.98, another at $1.50. They can be had in black or brown. Many others. (1st fl.)

"FLEET AIR" SHOES

are health shoes for young feet, and now we can get them in the good Snellenburg Shoe Dept. They can be had for the junior-juniors, wearing sizes from 4 1/2 to 6, at $3.07; for somewhat older youngsters, wearing sizes 6 1/2 to 8, at $3.60; for the larger boys and girls, wearing sizes 8 1/2 to 12, at $4.45. These shoes are extremely well designed, and are finished in the fashion of higher-priced shoes. Moreover, the shoes are made of soft silk-finished cowhide, with scuff-proof tips for the older roughies. Oh, yes, the smaller shoes have nice high tops for ankle support! (1st fl.)

"DAILY DOUBLE"

elastic handbags are certainly smoothies, nor are they expensive, just $2.85 plus the usual 20% tax. They're fashioned of the new, durable plastic calf, and can be had in black, brown, or red, in graceful pouch effects. The "Daily Double" meaning? Well, there's an extra compartment, a cosmetic compartment with an opening on the outside of the bag, at the bottom! Why not lay away some for Christmas gifts? Snellenburgs. (1st fl.)

EXCLUSIVE MILLINERY

is at its best in the little crystal salon in the second floor Millinery Dept. of the Snellenburg Store. Just now there is a showing of the newest flatterings turbans inspired by the 1920's. Naturally, they're modified with glamour touches, as are all revived fashions. And are they flattering! These Salon turbans are all fashioned in exquisitely soft felt. Their feather, head, or jewelry trimming and close fitting lines make them perfect for special afternoon, theatre or dinner dates. And you won't meet yourself coming around corners! Priced at $20 to $35. (2nd fl.)

P.S. Do send clippings with mail orders when you can! Phone free (5c, 10c, and 15c out-of-town calls only). Penna.—EXT. 10160; Jersey—WX-1150. Shop located Market, 11th to 12th Sts., Phila.—through to 1125-29 Chestnut St. Be hearin' from you! Faithfully, FAITH.

ONE OF A CALVACADE OF THRILLS

Advance sales are exceedingly high for the Hell-Drivers show to be presented Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the Killian Country Club, State Road, Eddington. The show is being sponsored by the Bucks County Rescue Squad which is in charge of tickets. In the event of rain, the show will be held the following Sunday.

The calvacade of thrills show has been catering to the America's thrill-seeking public for several months, it being their first appearance since the beginning of the war.

Several thrilling events have already been listed for the benefit of the fans of this section. One will be a leap over a huge tractor-trailer, another a deliberate crash roll-over of a stock model sedan, and still another sees the amazing dash through a 30 foot tunnel or fire by a motorcyclist who crashes through a sheet of plate glass at the finish.

Other death-defying perilous stunts are also on the card and spectators are advised to get their tickets and be assured of seats.

All members of the Bucks County Rescue Squad have tickets for sale.

RESIDENTS OBJECT TO FACTORY NOISES

S. Langhorne Manufacturer Agrees to Keep Windows Of Plant Closed

WORKS NIGHT SHIFT

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Oct. 17.—Objection has been registered against the noise from the plant of the J. G. Donadieu, Inc., which operates a factory in the building formerly occupied by the Eden Manufacturing Company.

Objection to what was termed an infraction of this borough's zoning ordinance was voiced at a meeting of Borough Council recently. A large number of the residents of the town attended the meeting to voice their protests.

Residents objected to noisy conditions brought about by the night shifts.

Council, previously having been advised of the conditions, contacted the head of the firm, and was informed that orders had been given to keep the windows of the factory closed. Contracts requiring the night shift to work have about been filled, and the situation, it is believed, will be remedied.

Objections to speeding, particularly in the Holly Oak Manor section, were considered, and State Police are being asked to assist in bringing an end to this practice.

An ordinance authorizing the purchase of a tract of land on Le-Grande and Maple avenues and the Lincoln Highway was passed. The property at present is owned by Mrs. Jeannette Cassard. The purchase of more land in this section of the town is considered by Council.

all. Land already owned by the borough is being posted with signs to prevent the dumping of trash on it.

Charles O'Brien, of the street committee, announced the erection of two new light poles.

ANALYZE STATE'S WATER SUPPLY*Important Data Assembled
For New Industries Seeking Locations*VALUABLE FACTS(Prepared for The Courier by the State Planning Board of the Department of Commerce.)

For more than two years along every river in Pennsylvania an intensive study has been continuing to determine the physical and chemical characteristics of the State's water supply.

Already a careful analysis has been made at one hundred and thirty-one points along the rivers during the periods of high and low flow. This will provide industry with accurate information as to the type of water available at every important point along Pennsylvania's water systems. Part of this data has already been published by the State Planning Board, in co-operation with the United States Geological Survey and the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, the three agencies which are conducting these studies.

At some points along these streams samples are taken every day. Along certain of our rivers samples are taken at measured distances across the streams.

Today Pennsylvania is the only State in the Northeast and the only large industrial State in our Nation which has accumulated this wealth of data as to the most important of all of its industrial raw materials.

The study is continuing with a number of key sampling stations which will continue in operation throughout the year.

The information supplied by this study of the State's waters will be valuable to communities and to the State in providing information needed by new industries seeking a suitable location. It will also be valuable as a check on the various measures now being undertaken by the State government, our municipalities and our industries to reduce and finally eliminate the dumping of harmful ingredients into the State's waters.

Much of the mineral content of our waters consist of the materials dissolved out of the rocks by the State's rainfall. These minerals vary, depending on the geological formation along the stream banks. Some are harmless or even beneficial, and some need to be modified to reduce the hardness of water and render it suitable for human use or industrial operations.

To know the full story of Pennsylvania's waters will provide the State with fundamental information needed for its program of public improvement and industrial growth over the coming year.

Versatile Back*SAL ACCARDI

Probably the most versatile back-field man on Bristol High School's football team this year is Sal Accardi, a 170-pound fullback, who is a triple threat man.

Accardi has been the mainstay of the "Bunnies" offense. He is a hard runner and on numerous occasions has picked up a lot of yardage. His most outstanding run of the year occurred in the Trenton Catholic game, when he ran 53 yards on a fake reverse to set the stage for Bristol's second touchdown.

In addition to being a threat as a ball carrier, Accardi is also a capable passer. He doesn't do the major portion of passing for Coach McClister's boys, but has demonstrated his ability to hit the mark when the occasion arises for him to pass.

When Accardi isn't running or passing, he is paving the way for the other backs with his hard and steady blocking.

Accardi has also done the major portion of punting this year. Although he had an off day against Pottstown, "Sal" constantly kept his opponents backed up in the other contests of the season. He is definitely a "pressure punter," that is, getting off his best punts when really under pressure.

Defensively, Accardi backs up the line and has displayed uncanny ability in determining the opposition's plays. When a hole is opened in Bristol's line, he is generally there to plug it.

Local football fans will have ample opportunity to see Accardi display his wares in the remaining four home games at the high school field. This is his last year in interscholastic competition.
